OF BEDFORD.

Who are Radicals.

The Greenville Union thus describes the material out of which the Radical party in East Tennessee is composed. It has its counterpart elsewhere:

"This party is composed of the odds and ends of such as could be induced to join them—of men that went into the Rebel army early, but finding the Confederacy about gone up, deserted and joined this 'loyal' party; men who went into the Rebel army, but being too cowardly to show their faith by their works, procured details to nurse sick and wounded Rebels; men that wrote abusive articles for Rebel newspapers—men that engaged to find substitutes for the Rebel service—men who by making salt-petre, chopping wood, and doing other things for the Rebels, did more injury to the Union cause than those in the Rebel army. Men who removed behind the Union army and speculated—cursing the Union forces for not 'taking the country,' that they were too cowardly to fight for. These are now very noisy fellows, such as speak up and laugh at public meetings, speaking, etc. Men who became 'disgusted' with 'Andy Johnson' because they were not appointed to places of trust—present office-seekers, broken-down politicians—with a great many good men, who are led into it by their prejudices."

Smith & Blake have just received a supply of "Andrew's Patent Gas Generator," or Double Cylinder Gas Generating No. Chimney Lamp, a new and useful invention, which consists in the employment of two perforated Tin Cylinders, one inside of the other, and connected by arms extending from the inner to the outer, and placed upon any ordinary Lamp in such a manner that by the air admitted through the perforated Tin Cylinders, and by the draft occasioned by the same, the smoke and surplus carbon are consumed, and a bright and odorless gas light is obtained.

It is a well known fact that the breakage, uncertainty and expense in keeping up the ordinary Glass Chimney Lamp has been a great drawback in introducing into common use the "Carbon or Petroleum Oils," and thousands, after using the ordinary lamps, discard them altogether and return to the "Tallow Mould." The Generator obviates all these difficulties, besides saving thirty-three per cent. of oil over the ordinary Lamp. It cannot get out of order, nor can it explode. It will not "blow out," always safe and convenient, and the cheapest and best gas light in use.

A private letter from Memphis says that the deaths there from cholera and kindred diseases average twenty-five per day.

W. N. Bilbo, Esq., an erratic Nashville politician of some prominence, died on Friday, 26th ult.

Turning State's Evidence.

The Albany Argus pays the following truthful tribute to the Republican Radical party:

The most astounding developments of Radical villainy and hypocrisy are made now-a-days by members of their own party. Stanton disgorged the dark character in the Col. North Case. Butler branded Bingham as the murderer of an innocent woman. Greeley owns up that his party defeated the Crittenden Compromise measures, and brought on the war against the wishes of a majority of the American people. The present Legislatures of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey have been branded by Republican journals as the most corrupt ever assembled in this country, and lastly the Philadelphia Evening Journal (Radical) announces the startling fact that it has been discovered that at the election last fall, the whole democratic ticket in the city, was elected by some thousands majority. It appears that the democrats have been deliberately counted out by the scoundrels who officiated as election officers. We hope these leaders will keep up their wrangling a little while longer. By so doing they will paint each other the blackest set of villains that ever cursed a so-called christian nation.

Torpedoes in Every House.

Gunpowder in the open air burns quietly. In order to show that it has power we must confine it. Except for guns, fire-crackers, &c., we might not have found out that gunpowder can make a great noise. There is a common sort of friction match composition that is a little more explosive than gunpowder. It burns quicker, and when confined it gives a sharper and louder report. The matches to which we allude ignite with a flash and a slight crackling sound. Most of the machines called parlor matches are of this sort. The readiest way of making a match explode is to lay it on the floor and press it with the heel of your boot. The report in sharpness and loudness is about the same as that of a percussion cap. Another way of making the experiment is to wrap the match closely in stout paper and give the composition end a light blow with a hammer. The explosion will be as loud as before and the paper will be torn into shreds. There is without doubt enough explosive force in a box of matches to burst the stoutest musket. Children should never try the experiment of exploding matches. It is dangerous. The melancholy fate of the Austrian Princess, betrothed to the son of Victor Emanuel, and burned to death but the other day in consequence of treading on a lucifer match, is a warning in point. The greatest care should be taken of these too plentiful and perilous articles.—Scientific American.

Juarez, in refusing the life of Maximilian, announced that it was beyond his power. In the proclamation which he issued, with respect to the prisoners captured, he refers a half dozen times to his "ample powers" and his "ample facilities" for acts of "clemency and mercy." This alone is sufficient to refute the idea that he did not possess the power to spare the life of the Austrian.

THE TENNESSEE STOKES.—The loyal Stokes in a recent speech apostrophized space thus: "Ah, my colored hearers, did you never receive the lash?" A misguided negro who thought Stokes wanted information, answered: "Yes, by golly, you gib me lots of it when I worked on your plantation near Liberty." Sudden subsidence of Stokes.

Mary and Keziah Hicks, of Roane county, Tenn., have lately disagreed with their stepmother, and the other day they moved the old lady to the smoke-house, labored like fiends to strangle her, then poured melted lead into her ear, and finally struck her several murderous blows on the head with an ax. The girls then left her and went to church.

A negro preacher of Pembroke, Mass., was fined ten dollars and costs last week for indecent assaults upon two respectable ladies. For the same crime a white man would probably have been sent to the state prison.

How Radicals are Making "History" for the "Rebels."

The New York Tribune has the manliness to speak of the meanness of the Rump Congress Republicans, in refusing to order an investigation of the charge that Southern soldiers were badly treated in Northern prisons during the war. The editor well says: "There is not a sympathizer with 'The Lost Cause' on earth who will not triumphantly read and cite it as an evidence that the Republicans dare not make a full and fair investigation of the treatment of prisoners by each party in our late civil war—not even before a committee of their own choosing—and the impartial world will be likely to agree with them. Suppose a European historian, writing the history of our great struggle, with the Confederate report before him, and only General Washburne's preamble and resolve to weigh against it—can there be any doubt as to his conclusion?"

The Etheridge-Maynard Fight.

The Knoxville Free Press thus states the little shindy between Etheridge and Maynard at Sneedville, the other evening, which the Press & Times displays so much tragic warmth over:

"We mentioned yesterday a reported personal encounter between Etheridge and Maynard. We learn the report now substantially, or rather technically, true. All there seems to be of it, Etheridge had previously told Maynard that he should not speak to him on any occasion or subject. On the occasion referred to, Maynard, still presuming, had the assurance to speak to Mr. Etheridge. "By what leave do you presume to speak to me, sir," said Etheridge. Maynard's reply being considered insulting, he was responded to by a couple of sharp raps across the face with an umbrella, which Etheridge at the time held closed in his hand. The umbrella response, we are told, was submitted to in a very quiet and truly Maynard-like manner."

A Washington correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle, says:

It has always been the boast of the Radicals that the soldiers are with them. They have managed by all sorts of promises and inducements to keep them in harness for a long time back, but latterly the "Boys in Blue" have begun to realize that the Radicals were using them as a handle and making tools of them. In order to counteract this, a new bill for the Equalization of Bounties, on the basis of $3 33 per month, is to be put through at the first regular session of Congress. It is a big job, electioneering and otherwise. Already the knowing ones are busy hunting up discharges.

The latest idea of the New York Herald is to put an end to the Indian war by making citizens of them. The Herald says:

"Why are the Radical philanthropists silent about the red man, when they are so noisy about the black woolly-headed negro? If civil privileges are to be extended beyond the white race—if this is to be a mixed government—an amalgamated republic of white and black on an equality, surely the red man, the original American, ought to be included."

The following notice, cut from a New England paper, is suggestive, if not odorous:

"WANTED.—An American or French youth, 16 or 17 years of age, to travel with a young colored man to Europe. Terms—$18 per month and board and traveling expenses. None need apply unless parents are willing. For reference refer to Mr. John B. Gough, Esq., Hillside, Mass., and address W. A. T. Smith, 50 Charles street, New Haven, Conn."

A man at Portland, Maine, had his house robbed recently by a New York professional, who on his way home, stopped and wrote a letter to his victim, returning a lot of papers valuable to the owner alone, and signing himself, "a poor but honest burglar."

A SÁD TRUTH.—We are informed, says an exchange, that the statistics at Milledgeville show the alarming aggregate of seventy thousand paupers in the State of Georgia.

Fight at Rogersville—Attempt to Assassinate Mr. Etheridge.

The Chattanooga American Union is permitted to take from a private letter received in that city, the particulars of the riot, from which we subjoin the following:

After the speaking was over, the Conservatives accompanied Mr. Etheridge to the old Edmon's Hotel, and in about half an hour the Radical league, numbering about three hundred, came marching along. They suddenly fired a volley and commenced firing right and left. The Conservatives, though thrown into great confusion by this unprovoked attack, soon rallied and gave them battle, and put the leaguers, most of whom were negroes, to flight. The fight lasted about five minutes, during which time there was one man killed, one mortally wounded and eight severely and slightly wounded. The man who was killed was a Conservative named York. The one mortally wounded was also a Conservative. There were five negroes and three white men wounded. One negro had his leg amputated the same evening by Dr. Walker.

After their repulse the Radicals rallied on the hill at Bradley's, but John Wolf and Wm. Thurman (both of whom had been officers in the United States, 8th Tennessee Cavalry, and are now Conservatives,) excited by the death of their friend, gathered up a squad of Conservatives, charged up the hill and routed the leaguers again, wounding one of them and captured the leaguers' flag and about a dozen guns and pistols.

The writer says that the times are now worse than they were during the war, or in 1861, but the dissensions are chiefly among the Union men, as Radicals and Conservatives. He thinks there will be a terrible time on the day of election, unless some steps are taken by the authorities to prevent it.

He says that the fight was commenced by the negro league of Rogersville, who fired the first shot, and were doubtless instructed to do so by some white men of that county or town. Most of the negroes were armed with new pistols, which looks very suspicious. They fired a whole volley at Wm. Thurman and Thos. Cain, (both of whom were officers of the Union army during the war,) but luckily did not touch either of them. It is strange that no more were hurt, as there were at least five hundred men in the fight, or on the ground.

General Grant has no hesitation in pronouncing the Indian war one got up in the interest of the various classes of speculators on the border. As a specimen of the exaggerated reports of Indian fights circulated in the country, the official report received by General Grant of the fights in which it was reported that Roman Nose commanded, and was killed after he had killed thirteen whites, shows that only two whites were wounded, and the horse of Roman Nose shot instead of the rider.

THE FATE OF THE TRAITOR.—Cowards are always treacherous and cruel. The siege of Queretaro was a success through treachery within the fortress, and Lopez, who was the traitor, since the city was entered by Escobedo, has not been seen alive, so that he must have been assassinated and the purchase money for his treason re-taken from him after its payment, by the very men to whom he sold himself and the Prince who had most trusted him.

A gentleman who resides in Brownsville says that last week several blacks who lived close neighbors to David Nunn, Esq., Radical candidate for Congress, died, and their friends were too poor to bury them. They applied to every prominent Radical in and about Brownsville, and not one would give a dollar to bury negroes that couldn't vote. Application then made to Conservatives, who gave what was needed.

ESCOBEDO.—Advices from Mexico, state that the butcher Escobedo contemplates a visit to Europe at an early day, being fearful of his life at the hands of his murderous countrymen.

The new City Collector in Washington has appointed a negro his chief clerk.

Scathing but True.

The Hon. Ben. H. Hill, of Georgia, in a most masterly speech delivered at Atlanta on Tuesday last, thus graphically describes a certain class of people of which we have some specimens in this region:

I am willing, anxious to welcome among us, good and true men from the North, who come to build up our country and add to its prosperity. I wish they would come in multitudes. They will find us friends. But when I see the low, dingy creatures—hatched from the venomous egg of treason—coming here as mere adventurers to get offices through negro votes—to ride into power on the deluded negro's shoulders—and creeping into secret leagues with negroes and a few renegade Southern whites, and talking flippantly about 'disfranchising the wisest and best men of the land, because they know it is the only possible chance for knaves and fools like themselves to get place, I can but feel ashamed that such monsters are to be considered as belonging to the human species. I warn you, my colored friends, if you would be respectable in society, or prosperous in your purse, or decent in your feelings, to avoid all such people. They will hug you and call you friend, and talk about your friends, but they will pull you down to degradation, to sorrow, to poverty, and to shame. They have white skins with black hearts, and will ruin your character if you associate with them. They are creatures born of political acidency and treasonable conspiracy, and are the enemies of all good governments and of all decent people. [Applause.]

A Stairless House.

There is now building in a busy quarter of Paris, an experimental house, which if successful—and there seems no reason why it should not be so—will serve as a model for similar structures in that and other great cities, where the value of land is very high, and the economy of space a matter of vital importance. The chief novelty in this house is the absence of any staircase, the place of that hitherto necessary means of access being supplied by a hydraulic elevator, ascending and descending noiselessly every minute. By means of this the lodgers will reach their respective floors speedily and without effort at any given minute of the day or night. Another advantage of this arrangement is, that it enables houses to be built to a much greater height, the upper floors being as easily accessible as the lower, and for that matter preferable, on account of better air, light, and freedom from intrusion or the noise of the street. The tenement house building in Paris will be eleven stories high from the street level.

The Knoxville Free Press says: "We understand that on Thursday, the Radicals at Maryville tore down the Stars and Stripes from the residence of a Conservative, who had been a gallant Union soldier, swearing that no man opposed to Brownlow had any right to that flag. When the Rebels tore down Union flags in this country the blood of Union men boiled in their veins. What makes the difference? There is none—the Radicals are rebels."

A married couple in Cleveland, Ohio, quarreled the other day, when the husband converted his property into cash, intending to separate altogether and leave the city the next day. He deposited $4,500 between the cloth and lining of his vest, where his wife found it in the night. She substituted an old almanac, and next day they took different trains—he going to Toledo, in ignorance of his loss, and she to her friends in Indiana, with the money.

Quite a number of women, most of them old maids, have issued a call for a convention, stating their object to be "to gain a true knowledge of the nature and attributes of man." We respectfully suggest to them that they are not going the right way to work. Why don't they get married?

A farmer near Coopersburg, Pa., picked this season ten thousand quarts of elegant strawberries from one patch of an acre and a half, which paid him twelve hundred dollars.

Bureau Trickery.

A reliable colored man informs the Robertson Register that a few days since he was approached by Capt. Barr—Bureau agent at Springfield—who demanded of him his certificate; saying he—Barr—would keep it until the day of election, when all the colored men would have to come to town and vote—that they would not be allowed to vote in their precincts. He told them that he was hired and paid to look after them and see that they voted right; that they would be guarded to the polls and protected in voting for their only friend—Wm. G. Brownlow, and that if the colored men failed to come they would be punished severely, and intimated that they might lose their lives if they failed to comply with his modest request. Many colored voters did surrender up their certificates because of these promises and threats.

Several of the leading Radicals of Tennessee were formerly negro traders—dealers in human flesh, who didn't hesitate a moment to separate the mother from her child if they could make a few dollars by the operation. There are some of the same sort in Georgia. They formerly used the negro for their own personal profit—they are trying to do the same thing now.

Judge A. W. O. Totten died in Jackson, Tenn., a few days ago.
